

I believe the FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has ended the daily calls from unsolicited sources including marketing calls. I used to get at least 10 calls a week and now I rarely am bothered by unsolicited callers. I believe Indiana's law is meeting citizen's needs and should not be forced to change, especially lessening its ability to restrict calls.